Can waste become art? "Art from Recovery" is a unique exhibition proving that creativity and recycling go hand in hand and that objects often considered useless can be transformed into artistic masterpieces.

The School Anti-Smog Team and Student Council have prepared an exhibition featuring artworks made from recycled materials and eco-posters promoting circular economy principles and responsible consumption. This exhibition is part of the grand opening of the Green Lab, "In the Land of Color and Scent," one of the school's most anticipated events of the year.

Grand Opening – A Major Community Event

Guests, including school representatives, local community members, and media, will have the opportunity to admire unique student-created artworks and witness how creativity can contribute to environmental protection. The exhibition will be open to all residents, encouraging visitors to reflect on how they can change daily habits to reduce waste and minimize their impact on air quality.

What Can You See at the Exhibition?

- Artistic objects made from reclaimed materials – creative projects crafted from plastic, glass, paper, and textiles, demonstrating how seemingly useless items can inspire artistic expression.
- Eco-posters promoting recycling, responsible consumption, and resource conservation.
- Interactive installations highlighting the problem of overproduction of waste and the potential for reuse.

Recycling as Art and Education

Beyond showcasing student creativity, the exhibition encourages reflection on how everyday consumer choices affect the environment. Through artistic expression, it becomes easier to recognize that changing consumption habits is essential for the planet's future.

"Art from Recovery" merges education, creativity, and environmental consciousness—demonstrating that recycling doesn't stop at the waste bin but can serve as inspiration for something new, beautiful, and meaningful.

This event is organized as part of the LIFE project "Silesia. Blue Sky Restored."
